

International Life Science and AI Investival

Innovation. Capital. Politics — coming together in a whole new festival format.

Meet the world halfway between the USA and Asia – in Berlin

From June 2–3, 2026, the German capital will become a global hub for life sciences and AI. From BioTech and TechBio to artificial intelligence and diagnostics – this is where bold ideas from science and industry meet capital and politics.

bio:cap is hosted by Messe Berlin in cooperation with leading institutions in science and medicine. Held under the patronage of Charité – Universitätsmedizin Berlin and the Berlin Institute of Health (BIH), and supported by the Hasso Plattner Institute (HPI), the event breaks traditional boundaries and creates a new platform for interdisciplinary exchange. The event connects investors, start-ups, and cutting-edge bio and tech science innovators with global pharma giants, digital leaders, and key political stakeholders.

As an Investival, bio:cap offers the perfect platform for discovering groundbreaking innovations, investing in high-potential projects and companies, and shaping the political framework for future research and growth in Europe.

What is an Investival?

bio:cap combines the depth of an investor conference with the energy and creativity of a festival. During the day, participants will dive into curated matchmaking, inspiring keynotes, and hands-on deep dives. The evening is the perfect time to connect informally — with unforgettable networking events in a uniquely Berlin atmosphere. This is where deals, ideas, and visions come to life.

Why Berlin?

Berlin is Germany's start-up capital – a magnet for global talent and entrepreneurial spirit. Together with the federal state of Brandenburg, the capital region offers one of the largest and most renowned science clusters in Europe. This unique combination of the capital city with its strong economic and research environment unites entrepreneurial spirit with creative culture – perfect conditions for an Investival. The city's vibrant ecosystem of co-working spaces, accelerators, VCs, and successful founders offers an ideal environment for new ventures to flourish.

Berlin is a uniquely inspiring European metropolis – where historic charm meets cutting-edge technology and a world-renowned nightlife. This energy fuels open exchange and makes the city a hotspot for top-tier international conferences year-round.

Berlin is also a political powerhouse at the heart of Europe – where game-changing strategies for science and innovation are crafted, and the future framework for investment and entrepreneurship is shaped.

bio:cap is at the forefront of this dynamic, uniquely connecting politics with leaders in science, investment, and pharma – right in the city where these worlds converge.
